These are large gear-shaped items found on the floor and shelves of the lower level of the main hut. They're not too difficult to spot, and it will give you the option to pick them up when you get close to them. You'll need to grab two gear parts to fix the lift.

Once you have two gear pieces and you're ready for the next step, head up to the balcony and interact with the red electrical box attached to the lift. You'll have to interact with the box twice for the repairs and a third time to activate the repaired lift. Now you're ready for a ride.

The lift will transport you to an underground lab on the map. From the starting corridor, you'll make a left and follow the path to a room with large chemical vats and glass cases lining both sides of the room. The glass cases have seeds, and they'll start sprouting into blue glowing plants. You'll want to shoot these blue glowing plants until they stop spawning.

The final step requires you to activate a machine in the nearby room. The machine has a red light, and you'll see a prompt to "start" when you get close to it. Once activated, you'll need to survive the remaining 12 rounds of the match before the Jubokko plant boss will appear.

If you're new to the game, we have some general tips for Call of Duty Mobile multiplayer and battle royale. Make sure to check out our guide for the mobile version of Call of Duty's Gunsmith. Additionally, here is everything you need to know about Call of Duty Mobile's battle royale, as it works a bit different than Warzone.
