No limit hold'em tournaments can be divided into two distinct phases:

1. The early phase where blinds are small relative to the stack sizes.

2. The late phase where blinds are large relative to the stack sizes.

Winning tournament players know the best strategy for beating tournaments is to play solid poker during the early phase, then play aggressively in the late phase. That's because in the late phase the blinds become significant and you must aggressively steal blinds to survive.

The late phase is where the majority of the chips are won. It is dominated by all-in raises designed to steal the blinds. Learning how to play well in the late phase is the single most important skill you must have to win poker tournaments.
